MARCH OF EVENTS

BY BRUCE HOPPER

SHOULD wrong ever be committed definitely to the scaffold, and truth mounted to her proper place on the throne, it will be due to the courage, and passion for truth as unswerving as the needle to the pole, of such men as Admiral Sims.

America loves her fighting admiral, and applauds his triumph in the battle for free speech in the high places. The sub-committee of the Naval Affairs Committee of the Senate has made public its decisions regarding the famous Sims-Daniels controversy. Admiral Sims is sustained, his honor cleared, and his pertinent criticism of the American naval administration approved.

Admiral Sims does not take his instructions of what the public ought to know from blue books, but from William Lloyd Garrison's stirring challenge to anti-Abolitionsts: "I am in earnest—I will not equivocate—I will not excuse—I will not retreat a single inch—and I will be heard."

From his post of command of the American fleet in European waters during the war the admiral was able to learn valuable naval lessons. His attempt to apply those lessons to the American navy earned him a reprimand from Secretary Daniels. He levelled his lance of criticism at the mistakes of naval administration, and revealed astounding facts with the blunt precision of an uncompromising sea dog.

Secretary Denby's recent reprimand of the admiral aroused the nation's editorial opinion to his defense. And now that the Senate committee has exonerated him of all charges the public will have even more opportunity to do him honor, for Admiral Sims is the type of man whom the American nation delights to honor.

THERE is dissension on Olympus, the highly educated and supertechnical advisory board of engineers continues to wrangle over the designs for the proposed bridge over the Yellow River, and China continues to pay the piper.

The trouble seems to be due to China's unfortunate habit of starting at the end of things and going toward they know not what. When the Chinese government decided to bridge the Yeellow River it called for engineering concerns of all nations to submit designs, instead of inviting a board of experts to make the designs and then call for bids on construction.

The result was that an advisory board had to be formed of different nationals to pass on the designs, which was done with the award of first prize going to a Belgian concern. It was not stipulated, however, that the winner of the first prize in designing should receive the contract.

Dr. J. A. L. Waddell, one of the greatest railway bridge experts in the world, was invited to act on the advisory board, whereupon he severed connection with an American firm which has intended to submit a design. After investigating the bridging possibilities of the Yellow River, Dr. Waddell suggested modifications to the Belgian design which, he declares, would save the Chinese government three million dollars. The British, French and Belgian experts now accuse Dr Waddell of interference, charging that he was interested in the rejected bids.

IT is difficult to sift the politics from the technical truth about the Yellow River bridge designs and bids. The controversy is based upon the fundamental difference between European and American bridge standards and specifications. American bridges are built with an economy of steel, but with adequate stressing to sustain the weight of great locomotives. European bridges are constructed for lighter traffic, the engines and cars are much under American weights. But the locomotives and trains used in China are patterned largely after the American design, and are therefore much heavier than those of Europe. The American builders aim at permanent structures which do not require replacing after a few years of service.

Dr. Waddell is known in America as an expert engineer of the highest integrity. His reputation prompts the certainty of belief that his opposition to the Belgian design as submitted proceeds from a desire to save money for China. He suggested modification in both the sub and the super-structure of the Belgian design, to which the other experts failed to agree. An interesting point might be raised as to the control of the railroad which will use the bridge if it is ever constructed.

GEN'L WOOD TO BE NEXT GOVERNOR OF PHILIPPINES

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

SMUTS IS FETED FOR SERVICE IN IRISH SITUATION

(Reuter's Service)

Cape Town, August 31.—General Smuts was entertained at a luncheon today to mark his return from the Imperial Conference, and was accorded a huge reception. In the course of a speech he recapitulated the efforts he made in London with a view to securing peace in Ireland. He declared that his services were requisitioned immediately he arrived, and had been exerted entirely as from an outside point of view, as a third party who had undergone curious experiences and bitter years in South Africa. He declared that he was still trying to keep in touch with the parties, and was not without hope of seeing Ireland arise as South Africa had arisen.

The Premier went on to dwell on the importance of the Imperial Conference as regards foreign affairs, especially in view of America's withdrawal from international matters, which left the British Empire the only stabilising influence in world affairs. The Dominions, he said, had strengthened the hands of Great Britain to prevent the Upper-Silesian question from dragging France and Germany into another war. He ascribed the handing over of the Upper-Silesian problem to the League of Nations to the realisation by statesmen that the Dominions dislike militarism.

General Smuts then referred to the naval rivalry between America and Japan, who, he said, were launching a new problem on the world. He added that most of the British Dominions abutted on the Pacific, and the Imperial Conference, in making a most important contribution to the Pacific question, had done much for the future of the world. (Loud cheers.)

THROUGH TRAIN ON T-P RAILWAY TO RUN SUNDAY

Still Fear Wind In Flood Area May Hold Up Traffic

TRAVELER TELLS OF TRIP

Gives Account Of Journey By Stages From Tientsin

Announcement was made by the Traffic Department of the Shanghai-Nanking Railway late last night that from September 4 the through train service between Shanghai and Peking will be resumed.

Officials of the Tientsin-Pukow Railway earlier expressed the hope that the first through train to operate in two weeks, since the floods smote the line near Pengpu, might be run today or tomorrow, according to a passenger who arrived in Shanghai yesterday after making the trip by stages. An adverse wind, however, he stated, would bring the effort to naught and further delay the resumption of through traffic.

The passenger, Mr. Wesley M. Smith, left Peitaiho last Monday night and started on the trip south from Tientsin at 2:30 p.m. on Tuesday, coming to Hsuchow according to the emergency schedule inaugurated by the railway when the floods interrupted the service. From Hsuchowfu train No. 9 ran down to Kuchen and from this point the passenger came by ballast train to about a mile beyond Tsaolaochi, a considerable distance beyond the bridge which crosses the Huei River. He then had to walk about five miles to Pengpu. From the end of the long bridge spanning the river there is a considerable part of the track—about two miles—which at present will bear only a light train. Ballast gangs were at work along this section when Mr. Smith came through.

TAKES BALLAST TRAIN

From Pengpu a ballast train ran to within a mile of Mentaitze and here, apparently, in the most serious break in the damaged section. It was necessary to proceed on foot again, but only for about half a mile. On Thursday morning the first ballast train approached to within about a half-mile of Mentaitze. There is a gap and the roadbed has been cut away, or eroded, until it is now only about five feet wide for a distance of some 300 yards.

From Linhualkuan, the first station this side of Mentaitze, train No. 10, which had been run up from Pukow, returned as No. 9 Down, leaving at 4 p.m. and reaching Pukow at about 1 a.m. yesterday.

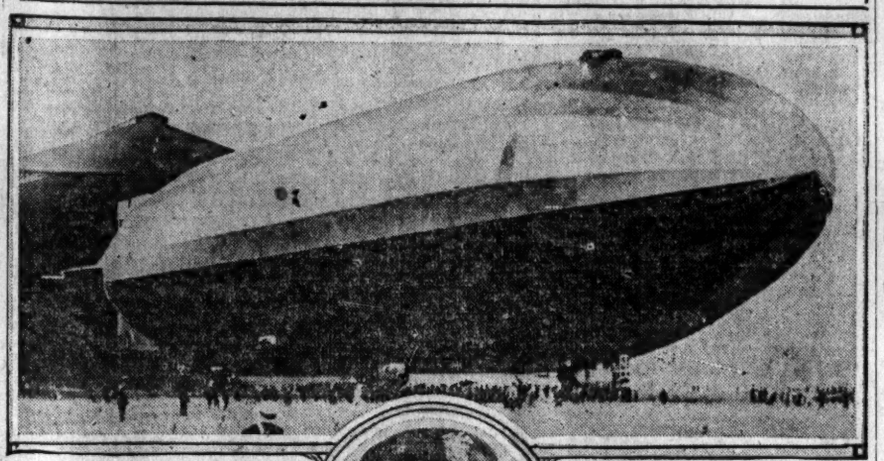
The railway officials on the spot told Mr. Smith that they were hopeful of getting the first train through today or Sunday, but that a North-east wind might upset calculations by causing waves which would lap away the embankment. In any case the banks must be very soft, owing to the long soaking they have had. While this, most badly affected, strip is still impossible to run over, there will have to be trans-shipment of passengers between Mentaitze and Pengpu, but this is for only a short distance and they will be ferried across or a boat bridge may be constructed. The water at the worst point is at present about four feet below the top of the railway bank.

There are also hopes that the through services to Mokanshan may be resumed today or tomorrow. One launch made the trip to the hills yesterday, taking a circuitous route, and the Shanghai-Hangchow-Ningpo Railway officials are making inquiries to ascertain if their launches may not be able to operate over the same route.

REPORT MANY DEAD

A telegram from Hsuchowfu states that the floods in Northern Anhui are working great havoc and that the area affected is several hundred li square, the depth of the flood being more than 10 feet. Whole villages have been swept away and dead bodies washed from place to place are found in large numbers. The floods are still rising. Business is at a standstill at Pengpu and Linhuai and the price of rice which is getting scarce, has soared to $2 per tou, or $20 per picul. The Shanghai price is at present $11 per picul.

R38, Which Sent 44 Airmen Flaming Down To Death In River Humber



THE R.38, aerial pride of the world, built to cross continents and oceans, which fell a flaming mass of wreckage into the Humber river, England, August 24, causing the death of 44 out of 49 passengers and crew. The giant airship had been purchased from England by the United States navy, and was on her fourth long trial preparatory to the flight across the Atlantic.

Flight-Lieutenant Wann, among the five survivors, was unable to explain the cause of the disaster, but it is supposed a loosened girder allowed the envelope to tear, and an electric spark ignited the escaping gas.

Among those who perished were Brigadier-General Maitland, of the British Admiralty, and Commander L. H. Maxfield, U.S.N. (shown in cut), who was to command the dirigible on the Atlantic flight. Of the 17 Americans aboard only one survived, a rigger, named Walker.

The R.38 was 695 feet long, larger than the greatest Zeppelin ever built. Her gas capacity was 300,000 cubic feet, and her cruising capacity 6,500 miles. She was equipped with six Sunbeam Cossack motors which developed 350 H.P. each. At the time of the disaster she had been in the air for 35 hours. The terrible loss of life is one of the common sorrows of Britain and America.

MINERS VOTING FOR POLES TO CONTROL AREA

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, September 1.—The elections to the Workers' Council in the mines and factories of Upper Silesia, just completed, resulted in a marked majority in favor of the Poles. According to reports published in the Paris newspapers, in 89 mines 762 Poles were elected, against 168 Germans. In the factories 377 Poles were elected, against 157 Germans.

It is noteworthy that in the various centers where the Germans secured a numerical majority in the plesbicite, voting for the Workers' Council showed a majority in favor of the Poles. Thus 20 mines at Kattowitz elected 184 Poles and 49 Germans, 23 mines at Beuthen elected 213 Poles and 31 Germans, and 10 Hindenberg mines 78 Poles and 58 Germans; at Koen'gshuette 16 Germans were returned against 13 Poles. Similarly in the factories, at Kattowitz 128 Poles were elected and 49 Germans, at Beuthen 83 Poles and 36 Germans, and at Gleiwitz 41 Poles and 29 Germans, while at Koenigshuette 13 Germans were elected against 5 Poles.

UNINTERESTED TO ACT

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, Sept. 1.—The Council of the League of Nations has decided to entrust the first consideration of the Silesian problem to the non-permanent representatives, namely, Belgium, Brazil, China and Spain, with full liberty of action, including an invitation to the Germans and Poles in Upper Silesia to furnish local information.

M. Leon Bourgeois in the course of a statement on the subject of the foregoing decision of the Council says that members of the Council are unanimous that it is wisest to entrust the preliminary consideration of the Silesian problem to countries which did not participate in the previous discussions, thus ensuring a guarantee of impartiality.

Days Of Dots Are Here In Dotty Literature Of Year

By Elsie McCormick

MAYBE it's just the white paper shortage or maybe editors who pay by the word are getting economical, but whatever the explanation, periodicals recently from home seem to be specialising in shrunken fiction. Instead of describing the heroine to the extent of two pages and three chocolate creams, the ultra-modern writer merely inserts a few code words like "Glorious . . . chestnut with glinting sheen. . . eyes. . . calm, but brooding. . . sunset on an impatient sea."

It used to be that dots were inserted only at the point when the heroine sacrificed her reputation. Now it seems that that is the only place where they put in the words. The rest of the story is told by dot method. If it wasn't that we disapprove of slang, we might describe modern fiction as dotty.

There are certain advantages, however, in this system of condensed literature. Unhampered by either plot or style, the reader is free to create his own story, to drift through the mist of his own imagination, or to wonder why the people next door never wash their dog.

A few years ago, when interpretive dancing was at the height of its vogue, someone suggested that it be made a method of communication in everyday life. One can picture a series of special poses that might mean "Twelve cents, and let me off at Dixwell Road," or "Three lamb chops, and some liver for the cat." In fact, we usually perform a few steps when we enter a car, especially if it is going around a curve.

Likewise, there is no reason why this desiccated system of conversation might not be applied to everyday life. The various interpretations possible for each remark would be extremely convenient in case one wished later to twist the acceptance of an invitation into a rejection, or to compliment a young lady without courting a breach of promise suit. If you tell her that her eyes are so wonderful you'd like to look at them forever, you've come perilously near to committing yourself. If you merely say "Green. . . translucent. . . sun on polar ice," she is vaguely flattered, but can't hold you to anything.

The description of a typical Saturday evening party in Shanghai, written by James Joyce or other proponents of period literature, might go somewhat as follows: "Whirling dervishes under a pink moon. . . a lady dancing fox-trot. . . ton of coal on foot. . . pain. . . final crash like landslide. . . Boy!. . . Don't you have any service here? . . . Tinkle tinkle, cling, . . . Where's the chit?"

There is another style of literature that has become popular since we left Greenwich Village—the presentation of a picture by a series of complete but unconnected remarks. This type is a bit more verbose, but being almost equally obscure, it maintains its rating with the younger intelligentsia. A Saturday evening at the Astor House would sound somewhat like this:

"Yes, there's always a terrible jam on Saturday nights."

"What will you have?"

"I don't know; I never saw her before."

"I've heard that from several sources, but of course I don't believe it."

"Can't they play anything but fox-trots?"

"They say she's crazy about him, and he treats her like a dog."

"The same thing all around."

"There goes a new one."

"I wonder if his wife knows it."

"Did you notice that gown? They say that before she was married, she used to play the piano for the sailors."

"No, absolutely, not another

China's Case At The Conference

MR. J. E. DOYLE of THE CHINA PRESS staff has just returned from a trip of investigation which took him to Tsingtao, all through Shantung, along the railway to Tsinanfu, and to Peking. The first of the series of articles resulting from his inquiry appears today on the editorial page. We commend it and the entire series to the attention of our readers. Its importance is matched only by its timeliness, for upon the disposal of China's case at Washington depends the success or failure of the Disarmament Conference.

Upon China's case is posed the whole problem of the Pacific and unless a solution of it satisfactory, not only to China but to the aroused public opinion of the world, is found, there can be no disarmament. Mr. Doyle is presenting the facts of the Tsingtao and Shantung situation as they exist today. These facts are of importance not only to every merchant doing business in China but to every foreigner and to every Chinese.

WOULD OUST TUCHUN

Peking, August 27.—Yesterday morning a deputation of Kiangsi gentry waited on the Premier at the Cabinet to present a petition for the removal of General Chen Kuang-yuan, alleging that he was unable to protect that province which was threatened with imminent invasion by the South. The deputation was received by a representative of the Premier who promised to convey to General Chin their petition and remarks.

Peking, August 27.—Order has now been restored at Kuangshui, where two battalions of General Wang Chan-yuan's troops mutinied because they had not received their pay. The two rebellious battalions have been disarmed by the military police of the 24th Chihli Division. The third ying at Kuangshui, which took no part in the mutiny, has been promised pay shortly.

The 24th Division, which was sent to Kuangshui to quell the upr'sing, will be replaced by the 3rd Division, which is being sent from Peking to Tamingfu.

Two infantry battalions of the 1st Fengtien Division, which have been stationed at Nanyuan, left for Shuntehfu yesterday.

CAPITALIST BOSS BRINGS CHINESE SAYS MAGISTRATE

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 31.—That a capitalist boss was behind the importation of Chinese into Canada and the United Kingdom was the opinion expressed by a magistrate at Pontypridd today, when three Chinese were charged with landing in the United Kingdom without the permission of the Immigration Officer at Liverpool, and were ordered to be detained in custody in the second division for one month with a view to arranging their deportation.

The magistrate declared that a great amount of money was given for securing the services of Chinese on the Pacific coast of Canada and along the coasts of Great Britain. A huge business was being done in this way in British Columbia, and certain Chinese were making fortunes very rapidly by getting young Chinamen into England.

ARREST 13 OF THEM

London, September 1.—The danger of flooding England with Chinamen smuggled aboard ship has led to special vigilance on the part of the police at the seaports. A number of houses in the Chinese quarter of Liverpool were raided yesterday evening. Thirteen Chinamen have been arrested in Liverpool on suspicion of smuggling.

CHINESE WORKERS ASK SANITATION FOR FOOD SHOPS

Laborers Make Touching Plea To Y.M.C.A. To Better Restaurants

A gratifying indication of interest on the part of Chinese of the working class in matters of public health has just come to the Y. M. C. A. in the form of a letter written by laborers in one of the large industrial plants of Shanghai. The letter asks that the influence of the Association be used in an attempt to alter the unsanitary conditions prevailing in the small Chinese restaurants wherein the workers have the majority of their meals.

A translation of the letter follows:

"We are sure that the Shanghai people were greatly moved by your health exhibit which were held recently, especially, we, the workmen, who have no home, and take both meals in any of the small Chinese restaurants. Even some of us who have home, owing to limit of time between working hours and financial difficulty, we cannot afford to go back.

"In view of the unsanitary conditions of these small Chinese restaurants, we are forced to open our mouths in protest. All the food that we take is very dirty. Sometimes, we find dead insects mixed with them and also the ashes of cigarettes. They do not wash the bowls after they have been used by others, but fill in the rice and serve one after another. We have called their attention to the fact many times but get no response. Since your Association is one of the organisations that interests in the welfare of the workmen and also the public, we beg to request you to inform the Municipal Council about these facts. We should be very much obliged if you will do this favor for us. Following please find a list of suggestions which we would make in this connection:

"1.—Do not store so much rice in the restaurant that it decays.

"2.—All the vegetables should be washed carefully.

"3.—All bowls and dishes, etc. should be thoroughly washed after they have been once used.

"4.—All food-stuff should be covered with wirescreens.

"5.—No toilets should be located near the eating place.

"6.—Clean oil should be used for cooking food.

"7.—No rubbish should be heaped up in the restaurant. It should be cleaned out every day.

"8.—They should not be allowed to use coal stoves. They should use gas stoves.

"9.—All utensils such as jars, etc. should be covered so as to prevent the flies.

"10.—Floors should be washed, at least once a month.

"Enclosed you will find several packages of dirty things which were found in those restaurants."

SIGNED

In the envelope was enclosed a package of insects that had been gathered as an exhibit and the address of the restaurant.

MADRAS AREA RIOTING

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 1.—The India Office reports that disturbances arising from acute ill-feeling between castes, and stimulated by non-cooperation propaganda in the mill area of Madras city, became intensified on August 29 rendering it necessary for the police to fire three times. Six persons were killed and 21 wounded. Troops were called out and order restored. There has been no further firing.

Reuter's Madras correspondent, telegraphing on August 30, states that the trouble in the mill area continues, and that the rioters were dispersed by the police.

Some people, when they go seeking trouble are content with nothing less than the four-ply, double-edged, back-acting variety of it. Yang Ts-san appears to be one of these finicky persons. Yang, according to the charge laid against him in the Mixed Court, not only had the temerity to commit larceny upon the possessions of a police official, but was so ultra in his venturesomeness as to select the official's German police dog.

The dog, belonging to Inspector Alers, disappeared several days ago and the Inspector had just about given up all hope of ever getting his pet back when Fate directed him into Sinza Road. Strolling down this thoroughfare, he passed the Mei Mei livery stable and, chancing to glance within the premises, his eye fell upon a familiar canine form. Whereupon there was a joyous reunion and the livery proprietor was called upon for explanations. The livery proprietor was voluble in this respect. The dog, he said, had been brought to him the day previous by a Kompo man who wanted $5 for it. The proprietor was much taken by the dog's appearance but he was at a loss to know how a Kompo man of such dubious appearance might happen to hold title to so noble a beast. Therefore, while agreeing to make the purchase at the figure asked, he requested the seller to call around two or three days later for his money. At the time the Inspector called the man had not returned.

The Inspector laid out a course of action for the liveryman to follow in case collection was attempted and next day the latter came round to the station holding one Bi Ding-fong by the collar. He said that he had been entrusted with the dog by Yang Ts-san and was only acting as agent in the matter. So they rounded up Yang.

Yang, of course, derided the supposition that he would be so regardless as to deprive a police officer of his watch dog. In point of fact, he deposed in Court, he had never acted as host to the thought of appropriating anything belonging to anyone else, but directed all his physical and mental exertions toward improving himself in his chosen profession, that of public ricsha coolie. He was thus employed when this entirely strange dog attached itself to him. It followed him around all day and in the evening, when he had taken his ricsha back to the garage, it followed him home. The dog's infatuation touched Yang so deeply that he determined to crown its happiness by allowing it to stay with him. And he had really tried to make it feel at home. But he hadn't figured on the beast's capacity for food and after it had engulfed about three meals he realised that it was a case of one or the other of them starving to death. For this reason, he asked his friend Bi to take the animal out and sell it.

For which Yang will do one week's penance and Bi three days.

IF RAINS STOP YELLOW RIVER STAYS IN BED

Peking, September 1.—Although the Central Government has for a long time done nothing to assist in the repair of broken and damaged dikes along the Yellow River in Chihli and Shantung, the flood situation in this region is on the whole improving, according to Mr. Lao, Chief of the Yellow River Bureau. The Yellow River has, according to Mr. Lao, subsided as much as five feet in some places, and the general outlook is good provided there are no more heavy rains.

As for the situation up to the present, Mr. Lao states that many of the small native dikes outside of the Government dike have crumbled away or caved in, causing much loss of life and great damage to crops in the neighborhood of Tsininghsien, Liaochenghsien, Tsevanghsien and Kiasianghsien.

The break in the Government dike at Lichinghsien has now widened to 5,300 feet and the old channel of the river has been blotted out by sand. The repairs to the dike at this place will involve much labor and expense.

800-FOOT CUT

At Tangchiaohiachang in the Huimin District half of the river bank over a stretch of 800 feet has been cut away by the floods. Repairs in this section have been begun, and it has been necessary to destroy more than 1,000 mow of kaoliang in order to make them. The Yellow River Bureau has, however, promised to indemnify the local farmers for this loss.

One hundred Li of the Yellow River dike in Chihli Province, close to the Shantung border, are showing signs of caving in the need immediate reinforcing. According to Mr. Lao, funds and men for this work are not, however, available at present. Indeed the whole task of repairing and strengthening the Yellow River dike has recently been handicapped by the lack of funds.

The Governor of Shantung has given the Yellow River Bureau a little money for this purpose, but it is a long time since Peking has provided any funds. In the meantime the Bureau's ordinary revenue is inadequate to meet the emergencies created by this year's floods.

Forests Given Into Charge Of Mr. Ting

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, August 27.—At today's Cabinet meeting it was decided to appoint Mr. Ting Meng-wu as Director of the Forestry Bureau in Heilungkiang.

The Minister of the Interior proposed that, in view of the very serious suffering caused in Kansu by the earthquakes, the Ministry of Finance should provide relief and that the local taxes should be waived until the end of the year. He also proposed that a lottery should be organised for the relief of the sufferers.

Other provinces would not be permitted to regard this lottery as a precedent as it was only granted specially in view of the abnormal conditions in that province.

Chinese Bank Ass'n. Here Against 10th Domestic Loan

The Chinese Banking Association of Shanghai has received from the Ministry of Finance a telegram asking its support for the proposed issue of the 10th Domestic Loan on the ground that the funds on which the loan will be secured will be in the control of the National Bankers' Association and the Inspectorate General of Customs.

This telegram of direct appeal to the bankers follows the statement of the Inspector General of Customs to the effect that he thinks the attitude of the Chinese bankers is a decisive factor in the issue of the new domestic loan. The telegram specifies the nature of the expenditures of the loan, by means of which it is hoped to accomplish great financial reforms in the direction of the adjustment of short loans, the stabilisation of the government's financial position, the development of education and industries, and in general, to hasten peace and to raise China's diplomatic position.

To this telegram the Bankers' Association replies that it believes that its attitude is clearly understood by the Chinese Bankers' Association in Peking and that the Government had better consult the Peking Association on the subject.

The Peking Bankers' Association has sent a telegram to the Shanghai Association, the gist of which is that it has exchanged views with the Inspector General of Customs and that a concensus of opinion has been reached that the only conditions under which the Government's attempt to raise any further loan should be, first, the curtailment of administrative expenses, and secondly, the adjustment of the foreign loans. The Shanghai Association is asked what its attitude is regarding the new loan if these conditions are fulfilled.

The reply for the Shanghai Association to this inquiry is that it has nothing to add to what was discussed at the national bankers' conference held here not long ago, that the Government is not to be permitted to raise any loan unless it has to offer as security reliable resources and unless the expenditures are of a justifiable nature. But, says the reply, since the expenditures are without checks and the administration is carried on extravagantly, the banks will defeat their own objects by rendering assistance when such is undeserved.

A Chekiang man, Han Hsin-tsai, has sent copies of an earnest appeal to various organisations here, including the City Chamber of Commerce, the Street Unions, and the Chinese Bankers' Association, pointing out that the proposal of the issue of the 10th year Domestic Loan cannot be allowed to take place because in the case of previous domestic loans the Government was always careful that the loan was first sanctioned by Parliament and that it was supported by substantial securities. These processes were regarded as essential even after the Parliament was forcibly dissolved. Mr. Han argues that the present moment is most inopportune for floating a loan because the Government is in financial straits and internecine dissension still lowers between the North and the South.

FIFTY TEACH IN PRESBYTERIAN'S SUMMER CLASS

Chinese Rhymery Course Is Given As Aid To Use Of The Language

(China Press Correspondence)

Tsingtao, Aug. 26.—From four or five counties, the American Presbyterian Mission has gathered some fifty teachers, including ten women instructors, for a training class lasting a week from tomorrow. The arrangements for the reception and comfort of the visitors are in the hands of Rev. and Mrs. John V. Wright. There are two devotional periods, two study periods besides the lectures and the time set apart for recreation.

Four lines of study are being pursued. First, Rev. Cortland Van Deusen is leading them in the study and practice of Dr. Torrey's book, How to Pray. Mrs. M. F. Chandler and Miss Edythe Mower are teaching music, giving special attention to congregational singing. A very interesting series of twelve lectures and studies is in Chinese Rhymery.

Those who in English have struggled with "feminine" and "masculine" and other rhymes, will appreciate somewhat the great story which the Chinese set on the art of proper rhyming; poetry is not poetry, they say, without proper rhyming. The ambition for this course is not the production of a generation of Presbyterian rhymesters or poets; rather it is hoped it will lead to a keener appreciation of Chinese literature. I am not informed whether this class is being attended by Americans.

Special attention is being given in instructing these teachers in the use of the national language. Miss Horace E. Chandler, who has had considerable experience in this work, has, among other aids to the use of the Kwoa Yu, a set of phonographic records with which they are being given the proper pronunciation. They are especially fortunate, also, at this time in having as a summer visitor in Tsingtao, Rev. E. G. Tewksbury of the China Sunday School Union, Shanghai. He has given a lecture on the national phonetic script and has otherwise made his presence here add to the interest in the class. In all this class work Rev. Chao Tou-nan has ably assisted Rev. Mr. Chandler and his co-workers.

The workers of the Presbyterian Mission here have just issued a very attractive report of their work for the past year or more in this station; the volume contains some twelve pages.

BRITAIN SAVES TEN MILLIONS A YEAR IN WAGES

(Reuter's Service)

London, Aug. 31.—For 2,750,000 workers in 55 trades, September 1 means automatic wages reductions amounting to £500,000 a week. Important cuts will also be made in the salaries and bonuses of civil servants and postal employes, which it is estimated will save the State £10,000,000 a year, while municipal employes of all grades will also feel the pinch of reduction, varying with the index figure of the cost of living.

A periodical adjustment of railwaymen's wages will also be made shortly by the Central Wages Board, and conferences between employers and men in the shipbuilding and engineering trades will be held in September to consider a reduction of bonuses in addition to the wage cuts already in operation.

DR. ROBERT E. SPEER

Famous Pulpit Orator Will Deliver Sermon At Community Church Service Tomorrow

Dr. Robert E. Speer, Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, and President of the Board of Trustees of the University of Nanking was among the passengers who arrived here yesterday on the steamer Empress of Asia of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services. He was accompanied by Mr. Russell Carter, Treasurer of the Board of Trustees of Nanking University.

Doctor Speer will remain in Shanghai several days and will address the service tomorrow of the Community Church. Besides being recognised as one of the most popular pulpit orators in the United States, Doctor Speer has for thirty years been identified with the cause of Missions. He is the author of 18 books on missionary subjects.

Preceding the Community Church services which will take place at 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon Doctor Speer will address a meeting for Chinese that is to be held at the Chinese Y.M.C.A. on Szechuen Road at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Presbyterian Board and the Church, through the General Assembly, requested Dr. Speer to respond to the urgent solicitation of the India and Persia Missions to make a visitation of those Missions; accordingly, he is planning to spend the months of October, November, and December in India, and January, February and March in Persia, visiting all the stations of the Missions. Dr. Speer's original plan would have taken him direct from San Francisco to Colombo by the Pacific Mail, touching only at Manila, but a disarrangement of sailings has brought him by the Empress of Asia to Shanghai, where he will remain from September 2 to 9.

Dr. Speer was recently elected President of the Federal Council of Churches of America. His new duties compelled him to relinquish his direct relation to the China Missions of the Presbyterian Church. Nevertheless, he still retains his keen interest in the work of the China Missions and will spend much of his time while he is in Shanghai in conference with the China Council now in session.

The Community Church service as usual will be held at five o'clock, in the Masonic Temple, 30 the Bund.

Corn Field Is Soft Spot For Falling Plane

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, August 27.—Bad gasoline, against which the aviators at Nanyuan Field have been protesting, was responsible for what was nearly a serious accident yesterday morning, when the motor of Charles Dolsen, the American aviator, cut out just as his pupil, Mr. Sun, was about to make the landing after a period of instruction.

Mr. Dolan, who took the controls from Mr. Sun as soon as he realised that the motor had failed was obliged to turn the machine and land into a corn field, in order to avoid killing a number of Chang Tso-lin's soldiers who were using the corner of the flying field as a drill ground, and in order not to kill himself by landing among the barracks or the brick kilns over which he found himself, when the motor died.

Neither the pilot nor the pupil was hurt, and the only damage sustained by the machine was the smashing of the undercarriage.

Bad gasoline, that is, not the high-test gas that should be used for aeroplane motors, had already caused a certain amount of difficulty. It is because of it that it has been impossible to fly the Vickers-Vimy planes, and is one of the causes of the discontinuing of the Tsinan Service; and in the Avros which have rotary motors it causes the pilots much difficulty in starting their motors before flights and gives them much anxiety in the air.

Mr. Sun, the pupil, was just straightening out the plane, preparatory to landing, and having lost altitude for the same purpose, when the motor cut out on him. Mr. Dolan, finding that a smash was inevitable, signalled to Mr. Sun to give him the controls. There was no place to land. In the corner of the big flying field the only bit of the field that the plane could reach from its low altitude, was full of the soldiers of Chang Tso-lin, and a landing among them would have certainly resulted in the death of several of them.

Directly below the plane were the barracks of the flying schools and the line of brick kilns that had supplied the bricks from which the barracks were made. The ground about them was full of holes and pits from which the earth had been dug to make the bricks. Landing in that quarter was out of the question. The only alternative was a landing made in one of the adjacent corn fields, which at best was a bad proposition because of the fact that the corn stood in places seven or eight feet high, and to and among it with any considerable flying speed would have certainly resulted in the nosing over the plane and the possible killing of both pilot and pupil.

Mr. Dolan brought the plane to about 30 feet off the ground and stalled it. It dropped straight down, with almost no flying speed, as was shown by the hole that it made in the patch of corn. The undercarriage took the main part of the fall, and the stalks of corn some more. And neither pilot nor pupil was injured except for some superficial scratches. With the exception of the landing gear, the plane was undamaged. But the incident has strengthened the discontent of the aviators with the inferior quality of the gas with which they are obliged to fly.

The country around the flying field is covered with patches of corn similar to the one in which Mr. Dolan put his plane, and with uncertain motors it makes flying an unnecessarily hazardous proposition.

RUSSIANS SEEK CONTROL

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Sept. 1.—A Helsingfors despatch states that a Bolshevik communique charges the Pan-Russian Relief Committee with approaching foreign governments with a view to establishing control over famine supplies.

The communique also attacks these foreign governments, and says: "If they want to control the Soviet Government's action, the latter will send them to the devil."

FEAR WORK IS IN VAIN

Paris, Aug. 31.—Fears are entertained in France that little effective work can be accomplished by the Russian relief organisation, on account of the attitude of the Soviet Government.

A Foreign Office statement on the situation reproduces a report to the effect that Dr. Nansen has concluded an agreement with the Soviet authorities, containing a stipulation for the opening of a relief credit of £10,000,000, which should be placed at the disposal of the Soviets.

London, Sept. 2.—Dr. Nansen has arrived in London from Moscow, where he concluded an agreement with the Soviet Government guaranteeing relief donors complete control over the distribution of their gifts.

ITO IS APPOINTED

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Aug. 27.—Mr. M. Ito, who studied in France for some years and has since served in the Japanese Diplomatic Service in Europe for twelve years, has left Tokio to take up the post of First Secretary at the Japanese Legation, Peking, left vacant by the transfer of Mr. Yamanouchi to Harbin. Mr. Ito was a year in Tokio after returning from France.

P.O. STAMPS AS CHANGE NETTLE TSINGTAO FOLKS

(China Press Correspondence)

Tsingtao, Aug. 19.—Cool Tsingtao is a blessed haven for the sufferer from the prickles of summer heat further south. Here he finds relief; here he bathes his body in the placid Pacific; his soul rests from its usual cares, but, lo, he finds in the unusual things in Tsingtao something which irritates and nettles, almost equal to that from which he has temporarily escaped. The world over, it is the things to which one is not used that amuse, amaze, or annoy. What vexes the spirit of the traveler in Tsingtao?

Stamp buying for letters is such an easy thing. With a smiling Japanese clerk who strives to give you exactly what you want, it would seem that all would be satisfactorily arranged, but not so when it comes to giving change. In Europe, in England, in America, everywhere almost except in Tsingtao, perhaps, one is handed change in small currency. Do not expect it here. One gets stamps in return, and stamps which one does not need only call for writing letters which one had not intended to write: this task destroys some of the joy of vacation.

Is it any wonder, then, there comes a nettled feeling of wonder why so progressive a nation as the Japanese, who pride themselves on up-to-date management, should be so far behind the rest of the world in this small but important business accommodation. Never mind, dear suffering visitors, our friends are going to change very soon, we hope, and by another summer this annoyance to your pleasures will be removed.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.
Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have paregoric or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep and a few drops too many will produce the sleep from which there is no waking. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all or to anybody without labeling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children unless you or your physician know of what it is composed. Castoria does not contain narcotics.

COTTON HAS FALL OF 100 POINTS IN N. Y. MARKET

(Reuter's Service)

New York, August 6.—The worst crop news of the season has been received this week from Texas and parts of Georgia and Alabama, where the boll weevil is reported to be destroying much of the crops. In Texas conditions are reported so bad that estimates by some of the best crop experts are being reduced to two million bales.

A very significant feature in connection with the damage news has been the fact that for about the first time this season, the South dropped selling cotton this week and began to buy, thus backing up its dismal crop advices. In so doing, however, the South would only be following the advice of various farm agencies and others which have steadily advocated the abandonment of crop efforts and the purchases of contracts on the exchanges.

A South Carolina man who visited the exchange this week related the same gloomy story as to boll weevil depredations as others have done, but in addition laid a great deal of stress on what he termed a lack of morale among farmers of the South.

BONDS TAKE SLUMP

He said they first bought Liberty bonds and the bottom dropped out; then they planted a cotton crop at high prices for labor and materials and witnessed an unprecendented smash in prices; then they tried fruit, melons, etc. and railroad freights ate up all their profits so that they had become utterly disheartened, and unless cotton gets to a level where they can see some fair return for their labor, he predicted that the next crop would be cut even more drastically than the present one.

He did admit however, that a good deal of blame for the farmer's present predicament was due to Mr. Ford, and to other automobile manufacturers who sold them automobiles that they had no business to buy.

Coincident with an editorial in a leading trade journal declaring that the plight of the South was in no way whatever due to the Exchanges, and with the statement of perhaps the most prominent Texas spot man and export shipper that the exchanges were immensely valuable to the cotton man for hedging purposes, Senator Heflin has just introduced a resolution in Congress authorising the Secretary of Agriculture to suspend operation of the Cotton Exchanges of the United States whenever their conduct "in his judgment becomes detrimental to the interests of the cotton producers."

OH! FOR THE GOOD OLD DAYS OF THE UNSPARED BIRCH

(China Press Correspondence)

Kaying, August 22.—Students in the government normal school here have driven their principal out of the school. There are two factions in educational circles: a city and a rural party. The former has been in power until recently when the city clique got control of the votes and turned all of their opponents out of office.

The principal of the normal school was one of them. He lost his job, and a new man was put in, but the change was not viewed with favor by the students because they are not on good terms with the provincial middle school students, which school is very active in the affairs of the new administraton.

As a result when the normal students came back last week they rose up and prepared to apply the boot to the new incumbent, but he hearing of the plans made good his escape.

At present the normal school is without a principal: the general state of affairs is causing the authorities considerable worry.

With the arrival of these officers the staff of officers attached to the American Legation for language study will total six men. PROTEST CHANG'S SEIZURE OF SALT TAX OF CHINA

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Sept. 2.—The foreign Ministers representing the old Consortium sent a note on Aug. 29 to the Waichiaopu strongly protesting against General Chang Tso-lin's interference with the salt revenues of the Kirin and Heilungkiang provinces on the ground of infringement of the terms of the Reorganisation Loan. The note does not mention the Fengtien revenues which General Chang Tso-lin has not touched though he intimated his intention of doing so.

The Japanese Legation proposed the sending of the note, which Mr. Obata forwarded as senior Consortium Minister.

Mrs. Gordon-West's Opinion of "Kirby's Sea-Sick Cure"

Park Lane,
February 4, 1912.

Messrs. COLLINS & ROSS,
154 Bermondsey St., London.

DEAR SIRS,

Until my last voyage to New York I dreaded sea travelling. Hitherto I had been so susceptible to sea-sickness that I could not leave my bed during the whole of the voyage. Even when travelling by train I have been obliged to lie down.

Before leaving for New York, I was persuaded to take "KIRBY'S SEA-SICK CURE" and was surprised to find that I not only avoided sea-sickness, but was entirely free from nausea of any kind. We had very rough seas during the greater part of the voyage, but I took all my meals in the saloon, and never felt better.

I shall never travel without the cure in future. You should make the remedy widely known, for it will be a boon to thousands.

Yours gratefully,
(Signed) MARY GORDON-WEST.

SUPER-DURABLE FLAT PAINT
FLAT WALL FINISH

A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and, where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

1 Imperial Gallon covers about 180 square yards one coat.

15TH INFANTRY TEAM WILL NOT PLAY HERE THIS YEAR; HONG LEAGUERS PLAY TODAY

Fans Looking Forward To The Arrival Of Warships For Next Good Games

The hoped-for series of baseball games with the team of the 15th Infantry from Tientsin, which has been lighting fire in delayed correspondence between Local and Army baseball managers for the past months or so has finally fallen through. A telegram was received yesterday from Tientsin containing the information that the Infantry nine cannot possibly make the Shanghai trip this fall.

Baseball fans looked forward to the Infantry series for the Army team this season, by its win over the Ninth Cavalry team and the Peking Marines, have taken the 1921 title as baseball champions of the service in the Far East. The inability of the team to come to Shanghai this year will be a disappointment to Shanghai fans.

The failure of the Infantry series probably marks the end of Shanghai's real baseball season, insofar at least as concerns visiting teams. Games for the balance of the year will be confined to local matches, with perhaps a few more to be played with nines of warships which are expected to make short visits here this month.

It is hoped to stage a Hong League game today and another tomorrow. If the grounds are in playing condition today after the rain the Anderson Meyer team will meet the American Trading nine. Tomorrow's card provides a game between the Anderson Meyer men and the Japanese Taiyo baseball club. Both games are scheduled for 3:30 p.m.

There is prospect of a game later in the week with the team off the Cruiser New Orleans, which is reported out of Vladivostok, en route Shanghai, and for the middle of the month with the Huron team which will sail from Chinwangtao Sept. 12, en route Foochow, Amoy and southern stations. It is possible that the Huron will put in at Shanghai long enough for a game.

Selections Are Announced For Today's Cricket

Selections have been issued for today's two regular cricket fixtures and it is hoped that the field will be in playing condition by game time.

HON. OSAKA NINE CONQUERED BY 1 PRECIOUS POINT

Dairen Audience In Transport When Hon. Biz Men Win Success

The Osaka Diamond baseball team which played here for Japan during the Olympics last June is now concluding a successful tour of North China, playing their final games at Dairen with the South Manchurian Railway nine and the team of the Dairen Business Men's Club.

The Businessmen's team scored one win over the Diamond team. The following is a report of the game as published in the Manchurian Daily News, a Dairen daily paper:

The first point of day was scored by Businessmen in 5th inning. After Kojima was downed, Yuasa took base by 4 balls, and stole base 2. Then, Kawakami sent a direct ball over base 2, bringing Yuasa home.

In 8th inning, Kawakami advanced through error of base 3. Ando followed. Ono, Osaka pitcher, eager to forestall Kawakami, was guilty of wild throw, which afforded chance to Kawakami to come home. Uchida was put out. Nakajima bunted clumsily. Mori, Osaka catcher, was on alert. He forestalled Ando first, before home base, and then Nakajima before base 1.

The visitors were now thoroughly roused. They faced whitewash and abject defeat, which would be something new in experiences.

Chance favored them. Kawakami, local pitcher, to whose skill and cleverness most of credit was due, had had attack of diarrhoea, and been obliged to fast. He was far from being in form. But, he was plucky enough to see hard-fought game through.

After he struck out Utsumi, Kakeyama and Deguchi took advantage of 4 balls, and took base in succession. Now was presented the only and last chance for visitors. Kusaka let go a grand lier to right, allowing Kakeyama to return home, snatching the precious 1 point just before too late.

The game was closed at 2 to 1 in favor of the Businessmen.

The first conquest to the Locals made the audience almost beside themselves with transport.

Golf Champs 'Second Rate' Compared To Pres. Harding

Warren Gameliel Harding is America's greatest golf attraction.

"Chick" Evans, "Jock" Hutchison and "Bobby" Jones notwithstanding, Warren G. Harding has a larger gallery each time he plays golf than any other golfer in the United States.

If the President saw fit to charge admission each time he wields a brassie he would net a neat little sum that might run a close second to the salary check that the treasury department sends him twice a month.

All Washington likes to watch the President golf, and to date most of Washington has seen him at the game. No one has heard him, which speaks well for his temper.

PLAYS ON 9-HOLE COURSE

The President plays most frequently on the 9-hole course in East Potomac Park, which is maintained by the government for the public of Washington. Whenever he appears at the first tee he is immediately surrounded by a half-hundred golfers and all of the way down the course has an increasing "gallery." Most of the golfers let the President "go through," while they stand on the edge of the fairway and watch him, and it doesn't seem to feaze him a bit.

Warren G. Harding's collective golf cards may not look well enough to be framed, but he is a rare golfer, for he never displays extreme joy or chagrin over his game. Like most of the garden variety of golfers, he spends a good bit of his time in the bunkers and raises much dust, but, unlike most golfers, he doesn't raise "Cain" with the dust. He just shoots away until he is out of the hazard and back on the fairway, and never a word or even an ugly look.

Some two score or more old-time golfers stood by in amazement a short time ago and watched the President drive into a sandpit one hundred yards from the tee, on a par 3 hole. The President watched his ball sink in the sand, walked to it very deliberately, chose a spoon and tried for an "out." No luck, but plenty of sand in the air and all over the president golfer. One more try with the spoon, and the same net result. On the third shot the little old ball went shooting into the air carried twenty yards over the green. The President switched his cigar from one corner of his mouth to the other and, without even muttering, walked on.

NOT A SIGN OF PIQUE

When the Chief Executive was out of hearing, one of the old timers who was standing by exploded. "He can't be human! Three dubs and not a single word!"

The old timer followed along to the green. The President drew a six on a par 3 hole.

"Nice work, Joe," said the President to Senator Frelinghuysen, his opponent, who holed out in 3.

Turning toward the next tee, the President stopped in the midst of his "gallery" and asked a youth for a match.

"He is human, after all, eh, wot?" croaked the old timer.

This was a fair example of the Presidential's control at golf. The chief executive doesn't always hit them where he would like them to go, but he has perfect control of his temper and tongue, and one bad hole doesn't ruin his game, for he goes after the next hole harder than ever.

The President may not have the best golf form in the land, but it's a safe wager that he was as good golf temper as any player now extant, unless some of the characters in those old Sunday school books have taken up the ancient Scotch game.

The executive is not a star golfer, nor is he a bad golfer. His scores run under and over the 100 mark for eighteen holes. He plays golf for the sheer joy of it and to win. Whatever he plays he plays to win, but he plays with an extreme fair-mindedness and takes no advantage over an opponent, nor does he gloat over an adversary's misfortune.

President 'Putting Off'

President Harding "putting off" on a tee on the course near the home of Senator Frelinghuysen, at Raritan, N. J. President Harding is an ardent golf fan and plays whenever he gets the chance, which is not very often.

DAVIS CUP DRAW PITS BEST NET MEN IN FINALS

Kumagae And Shimidzu Will Oppose America's Four Best Players

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Sept. 1.—The following is the result of the draw for the challenge round of the Davis Cup:

Singles: Johnston v. Kumagae Tilden v. Shimidzu.

Doubles: R. N. Williams and W. M. Washburn v. Shimidzu and Kumagae.

The draw for the Davis Cup finals brings together the strongest tennis players in the world. Tilden and Johnston, ranked as No. 1 and No. 2 among America's tennis players, have opposed the principal players of the world in tournament as well as in cup ties. They are conceded to be the two leading tennis players of the world. . . .

Williams and Washburn, who are drawn for the doubles rank in America as No. 3 and No. 7. The former is classed as the most brilliant player of all time; the latter first achieved prominence first as captain of the Harvard Tennis team, and later as champion of the A.E.F. in France. He played at Wimbledon in the English championships and last year was chosen as a member of the Davis Cup team that went to Australia.

Kumagae, peculiarly, is a resident of New York City. He is ranked in American Tennis manuals as No. 4 among tennis players in America. He is considered to be even a stronger player than Shimidzu, the acknowledged champion of Japan.

AUSTRALIANS SCORE SLOWLY IN SECOND DAY'S PLAY WITH SUSSEX; HONORS ABOUT EVEN

Close Of Play Shows 105 Runs Marked Up With Only One Wicket Down

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 1.—The match between the Australians and Sussex was resumed at Brighton today in glorious weather. Sussex, who had made 121 for three wickets in their first innings overnight, were dismissed for 282. R. A. Young batted steadily for four hours for 124, which included a five and 14 fours.

The Australians in their second innings scored very slowly, and at the close of play had compiled 105 for one wicket.

At the close of yesterday's play the Australians had been dismissed for 209 runs for their first innings after a bare two and three quarter hours of play.

Arthur Irwin, Baseball Dean, Likely Suicide

Boston, July 16.—Arthur A. Irwin, long associated with professional baseball as player, manager, coach and scout, and credited with being the inventor of the modern catcher's glove, was regarded today as a suicide. He was missing from the steamer Calvin Austin when it arrived Boston from New York.

Friends to whom Irwin had remarked that he was "going home to die," said he was depressed by illness and probably jumped overboard.

Irwin won his baseball spurs as a shortstop and he was one of the best infielders of his time—the '80's.

Chicago Cub Fan Bewails Fancy Names In Line-Up

"They say," said an old Chicago Cup fan recently, "that there's nothing in a name, but I claim that there is. Take the old Cub machine, for example. Don't tell me that the game hasn't changed."

CHINESE FISHERY RIGHTS BASE OF 20-MILLION CO.

Admiral Li Has Plan For Big Development Work In Products Of Sea

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, Aug. 26.—Admiral Li Ting-shung, of the Chinese Navy, in an interview with a representative of the Chung Mei News Agency this morning, declared that the plan for developing the Chinese fishing industry along the whole coastline of China, was still under consideration, and that it had not yet been decided whether the Department of the Navy or that of Agriculture should take up the proposition; but he outlined the history of the movement and showed, not only the great benefit that would accrue to the fisheries, but how from this work the Chinese Navy could be built up.

"The work is being held up," Admiral Li said, "because it has not been decided whether our department or that of Agriculture should undertake the development of the fisheries. The Department of Agriculture claims that this development should come under the control of their department and not under that of the Navy Department. On the other hand it is true that the Navy is in a very much better position to carry on the work, because of the fact that it possesses boats, and can give protection to the fishing boats which, at the moment is the most valuable service that can be rendered, because the coasts are infested with pirates.

FISHERS ARE PROTECTED

"The idea originated last winter when the fishing companies of Chekiang asked the Navy if they could not receive protection from the gunboats of the service. This protection was given, and four gunboats were sent to the waters of that province to patrol the coast and keep away the pirates who from time to time make raids on the fishing fleets.

"They capture boats, drive off the fishermen, and appropriate whatever money or catch of fish they can, as well as turning the prizes into pirate craft. Only six weeks ago we captured two of these piratical craft. In the winter, however, no thought was held with regard to asking the fishing companies or the individual fishermen to contribute toward the maintenance of the Navy boats.

Since then there has been a further demand from the fishermen for protection, and negotiations are now going on with the fishing companies to see just what arrangement can be made."

NO JAPANESE IN IT

"There is no Japanese money mixed up in this plan," said the Admiral in answer to the direct question of the interviewer; "nor will we allow any to be subscribed; there are some wealthy Chinese who are very much interested in the scheme, and they will be able to manage the whole affair if they decide to do so. The reports that there is Japanese capital behind the plan are entirely wrong."

But the Admiral emphasised that nothing definite had been arrived at because of the disagreement between the Departments. He said that there were many other difficulties in the way of the success of the scheme.

"It is difficult," he said, "to make the plan into a definite money making proposition that will attract investors. We would like to have as much as twenty million dollars to go into the work of building more patrol boats for the work; our coastline is seven thousand miles in length and we have only a forty thousand tons in all in the Navy with which to cover this distance. We would need a dozen boats in all. In addition we need the money for the building and equiping of the fishing craft themselves and the developing of modern methods of doing the work.

NEED BOATS FOR WAR

"We are handicapped, too, by the fact that we are obliged from time to time to withdraw our boats from their patrol work on the coast to assist in military movements in the country. It is all right as long as things are going smoothly, and the country is quiet; but when disorders occur, as they are at present on the Yangtze, and we are obliged, as we are obliged at the moment, to send our gunboats up stream where the larger vessels cannot go, backing them from their important work of patrolling the fishing fleets, then an orderly development of the fishing plan cannot be made."

As to the actual plan that would be put into effect the Admiral said that nothing had been worked out; he was of the opinion, however, that the best possible way to develop the project would be to enlarge perfectly naturally little by little. A start has been made through the spontaneous request of the fishermen that the Navy protect them from the pirates. The next step would be to extend the same plan to the other provinces, as fast as the other provinces demanded it and were willing to help support it. But Admiral Li was of the opinion that it would take a long time to get the thing really under way. He did not expect that the question of the Department who would handle the matter would be decided for several months.

MILITARY LOTH TO ACT

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 1.—The late intervention of the military in the Belfast disturbances is due to the reluctance of the authorities to do anything that might be construed as breaking the truce.

It is recognised that the disturbances may seriously affect the peace developments, and they are already made the basis of violently partisan comments in the newspapers.

One section of the press declares that a "pogrom of Catholics" was promoted by Orange shipyard leaders with the deliberate intention of wrecking the peace movement, while another section asserts that "the murder campaign in Belfast is the price of Mr. Lloyd George's surrender to the assassins, the object of the Sinn Fein rebels being to provoke the Orangemen to take vengeance."

It is impossible amidst the present confusion and tumult to ascertain who begins an affray. It is noteworthy there have been numerous victims among the spectators watching the fights.

Quietness reigned supreme in Belfast all this morning. Most satisfactory effects have followed the posting of strong military forces. Armored cars are patrolling the streets, and the only disturbing incident has been sniping at the men going to work. The snipers disappeared on the approach of the police.

There have been no more deaths since last night.

Additional troops arrived in Belfast in the course of the morning. Traffic has been resumed and all the shops are open.

The Cabinet of North Ireland had a further conference with the military and civic authorities in Belfast today, after which the Lord Mayor issued a proclamation, appealing for the continuance of peace, and declaring that further military effectives are ready if required.

The authorities are determined to crush disorder, and ample protection will be afforded to all classes. Troops occupy the Ulster Hall.

After leaving Chinwangtao the Huron will proceed to Foochow, where she will remain from September 22 until October 2. She will then visit Amoy for four days and Swatow for two days, leaving the latter port on October 11.

MUKDEN TUCHUN GRABBED GRAY'S PRIVATE PAPERS

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, September 1.—Marshal Chang Tso-lin, and not the Russian Affairs Bureau of the Foreign Office, is responsible for the arrest of Courier Paul Gray and the seizure of the despatches that he was carrying from Mr. Yourin in Mukden to Mr. Agareff in Peking, according to confidential reports received by the Chung Mei News Agency from Mukden today.

These reports indicate that Chang Tso-lin's private secretary was aware of the fact that Gray was taking confidential Chita documents to Peking; and the secretary at once informed General Chang. The General thereupon ordered his secretary to assure Gray that he would not be molested or searched en route and at the same time telegraphed to Peking stating that Gray was on his way with Chita despatches and that he should be detained and searched upon his arrival in the Capital.

Neither the Chinese Foreign Minister nor the Bureau of Russian Affairs had any knowledge of Gray's departure from Mukden until Gen. Chang's telegram reached Peking, according to the Chung Mei News Agency's informant. It was, therefore, obviously impossible for the Bureau of Russian Affairs to send, on its own initiative, a detachment of secret police to the station to arrest Gray.

JAPAN RECALLS MAJOR KAMADA

(Dalta News Agency)

Chita, August 19.—On August 10 a Japanese detachment under the command of Major Kamada suddenly surrounded the village Chernigovka, Maritime Province, attacking with rifles and machine-guns a detachment of one hundred soldiers belonging to the Far Eastern Republic.

Being previously ordered by the Government not to enter into hostilities with the Japanese under any circumstances, the commander of the Russian detachment lined his men openly in the eyes of the Japanese and ordered a retreat without returning a single shot. The Japanese, however, continued firing. In connection with this incident, the representative of the Far Eastern Republic at Iman has sent a protest to the Japanese Command and also informed the Consular Corps at Vladivostok.

The Japanese Command has recalled Major Kamada's detachment, partly owing to the protests of the Far Eastern Republic and partly owing to the lack of an excuse for maintaining its forces in the neutral zone as the forces of the Far Eastern Republic strictly obey the orders of their Government and have never fired a shot at the Japanese forces.

Before its recall Major Kamada's detachment continued its assaults upon the Russian regular forces and Partisans in several villages in the neutral zone which were stationed there for protecting the population from the Hunghutze.

It is expected that a large force will be required to deal with the situation at Tanur.

REPAIRING BREAKS

Peking, August 27.—Restoration of rail and telegraphic communication between Peking and Shanghai is now but a matter of a few days, communications officials believe. Rail service on the Peking-Hankow line has already been resumed following the quelling of a mutiny at Kwansui.

According to reports that reached Peking today, soldiers who served under Wang Chan-yuan mutinied and after looting several places they placed mines along the tracks. These were found and removed and traffic was resumed.

On hearing of the mutiny, General Wu Pei-fu sent troops who defeated the mutineers and drove them back to Hsiaochiakong where they looted the railway station, several stores and then fell back on Teban. They are being followed by Wu's men according to latest reports. Tickets for through passage to Hankow were being sold today.

Breaks in the Tientsin-Pukow line are being repaired rapidly. The damage by floods at Kwanming has been repaired and work on the flooded section near Pengpu, the worse point, is now well under way. It is believed that this section will be restored in about five days.

Mails which piled up at Pengpu were taken back and have now arrived in Peking. It required six days for a letter between Peking and Shanghai by boat.

Since the Tientsin-Shanghai cable went down because of the typhoon the telegraphic lines have been congested. Dispatches are received for transmission by land wires but the cable which offers better and faster service has not yet been repaired.

The Peking-Mukden line is open and is now carrying a large part of the Peking mail destined for foreign countries. The mail is sent to Japan by ferry and placed aboard the vessels at Yokohama and other points touched by the mail steamers.

Shanghai Volunteer Corps

At a time like this, when an appeal is being made to every British subject in Shanghai to enrol as a volunteer in a British unit a few words on the record of "B" Company (British) may not be amiss.

The exact date on which the "B" Company actually came into existance seems to have been lost. This is not to be wondered at when it is remembered that it was during the troublous times of the Taiping Rebellion when the community was very small.

It is not surprising that in the rush of meetings called hastily for the purpose of putting the Settlement in a state of defense, records either were not made or, if made, were lost. It is known however that "B" Company (British) was in existence in January, 1860 and was designated No. 2 Company.

From that date it seems to have pursued the even tenor of its way until December, 1878. At that time the absence of wars and rumors of wars seems to have acted detrimentally on the Volunteer Corps, and the Corps was reorganised. In the process of reorganisation, disbandments and amalgamations took place: but No. 2 Company remained as it was and the following paragraph appears in the Municipal Council Report for 1878:

IS OLDEST UNIT

"No. 2 Company:—Remains without change, the officers still retaining their appointments."

It is interesting to note that the uniform selected by the members of the Company was the uniform then worn by Her Majesty's Royal Marine Light Infantry.

Of the units of which the S.V.C. was originally composed "B" Company is the only company that has neither disbanded nor reorganised and may therefore claim to be the oldest unit in the S. V. C.

It is essential for the future welfare as a British unit that it should be kept at full strength. There are vacancies at present for new members. Applications should be addressed to Captain F. J. W. Melville, Municipal Health Office.

The winning of the Bray Cup by this unit is particularly welcome, coming, as it does, after the unit has finished third in several recent Corps Competitions.

The winning team, Sergt. T. G. Nevo and T. J. Ellis, had a mean percentage of error of 10.5 Sergt. Ellis was second of all competitors with an average of only 7 percent error.

MARITIME COMPANY

An Officers and N. C.O's. meeting was held last night, and the following resolutions were adopted: To appoint at the forthcoming annual dinner the following committees: Musketry, Mess, Recruiting, Press, and Sports and Entertainments. Various other company matters were discussed.

Final arrangements have been made for the cruise up the river, and the launch train headed by the Record of Messrs. Eisler and Reeves will leave the Nanking Road Jetty at 10 a.m. sharp on Sunday, September 4. Uniforms: Bathing suits with helmets—birthday dress outside the three mile limit. As this cruise clashes with our Monthly Competition, a change of dates with the Italian Company is being arranged.

The annual dinner takes place at Shephard's Cafe on September 16 at 7:30 p.m., no uniform.

Gunners Willden and Jensen are to be congratulated on their recent wins in the S.R.A. which shows the "water rats" are carrying on under a full press of canvas. The monthly shoots in this company are proving to be a great attraction and also a success. The younger members are coming along nicely.

During the past week the company has taken six new members into its fold, and there is every indication that the Recruiting Committee will be kept busy all the time.

This company is open to all able-bodied men of any nationality. Interesting literature covering the advantages of the S.V.C. and this company together with a copy of the Maritime Bulletin will be sent to anyone interested, on application to Sergt. Major Tobias, c-o Lazarus and Co., 17 Nanking Road.

SHANGHAI SCOTTISH

The Company has now organised its own transport scheme; motor drivers have been appointed and the first opportunity in putting this scheme into operation will be on September 11, when the Company will be out on manoeuvres in the Western District. After the manoeuvres are over, the Company will be the guests of Lieut. A. S. and Mrs. Campbell at their residence in Weihaiwei Road where a photograph of the gathering will be taken for the Company's records.

The Company is losing the services of Sgt. E. H. Gordon, who is proceeding home on leave, and takes this opportunity to place on record an appreciation of his services, extending over many years.

DROWNED AFTER SEEING WOMEN SAFE TO SHORE

(China Press Correspondence)

Kuling, August 28.—The body of the Rev. Robert C. Treman, of the Nanking Methodist Mission, recovered late yesterday afternoon three miles below the Three Falls was interred this afternoon in Kuling Fairview Cemetery. Rev. Treman was one of a picnic party caught in the Three Falls pool in the rush of water that occurred simultaneously with a torrential and sudden downpour about one o'clock Friday. The affair duplicates in almost every detail the Kunkle tragedy of just a year ago.

The Three Falls is a favorite with Kuling hikers and swimmers. Just above the falls is a pool of crystal water, and at the head of the pool midstream is a large flat rock, ordinarily high and dry, where lunches are spread.

Friday's party was eating lunch upon this rock. As a few warning drops fell the talk turned to the tragedy of last year and every one made for the higher bank, but the storm had approached from above and without warning the waters of the half dozen steep water sheds were upon them. No one has any accurate idea of what happened. Mr. J. H. Blackstone saw his wife just in time to pull her out, and the children in the party were fortunately placed in positions of safety. Treman had stayed behind to help the women and children across the stream and no one saw him go over the falls.

A search party headed by Mr. Sarvice and containing three men who had searched three days last year for the body of Miss Kunkle started out that evening. Saturday afternoon some Chinese reported to them that some grass cutters had discovered the body. For ten dollars, they said, they would lead them to it.

The water had carried it two miles beyond the point where Miss Kunkle's body was found last year and though it was late two of the party brought the body up the hill Saturday night while the others remained at a temple on the plains below. Mrs. Treman had joined the search party Saturday accompanied by Mr. Blackstone.

Only intimate friends of the family were invited to attend the funeral this afternoon at the home of the deceased's brother-in-law, Rev. J. H. Blackstone, though many were gathered at the cemetery for the burial service. Bishop Birney conducted the services.

Rev. Treman came to China in 1918. The following year he returned to America and was married, Rev. and Mrs. Treman have been engaged since then in the Methodist Institutional Church work in Nanking.

Rev. Treman has played a prominent part in the life of the Nanking community during the three years he has been there.

By a sad coincidence he was to have sung the solo at the church this morning, bringing it home even more keenly how much his voice has meant to his friends. He was a member of the Nanking Music Club, and the club quartet. Mesdames Sweetman, Kelsey, Daniels and Barnes sang at the funeral this afternoon.

Jute Fabrics

Mr. J. A. Fredericks states as follows in the jute fabrics circular dated August 31:

For the first time in months the gunny market shows an improvement in prices with enquiries at a respectable advance. At the time of writing there are buyers of Heavy C's 2¼ lbs. bluestripe at Tls. 165 but practically the only sellers in the market are Chinese dealers as the difference between local and Calcutta prices is over Tls. 10 per 1,000 in favor of Calcutta.

China's Case At The Conference—I.

BY J. E. DOYLE

EDITOR'S Note: This is the first of a series of articles by Mr. Doyle who has just returned from a trip of investigation which took him to Tsingtao, all through Shantung along the railway, to Tsinanfu, and to Peking. It is an important and timely presentation of the facts of the Shantung situation as they exist today. Success of the Washington Conference depends upon how it disposes of China's case, for upon China's case is posed the whole problem of the Pacific, and until this problem is solved to the satisfaction of all, there can be no disarmament.

TSINGTAO, key to Japan's economic occupancy of China's Northern coast line, today is one of the important cities of the world. The beautiful seaport, easily the most attractive Summer resort in the Far East, may hold charms for vacationists, but it will cause worry and trouble and difficulty for the diplomats of the world who are to sit in conference at Washington on November 11, seven years and four days after Japan occupied the little stretch of wooded hills that since 1898 had been Germany's commercial and naval base in the Far East.

Today Tsingtao confronts us as a problem which must be solved if the nations of the world are to know whether or not Japan is to be supreme economically in the Far East. For it must be said that Japan has scrapped the former German naval base and the forts which defended the city against the Japanese and British forces. Tsingtao is not being used by Japan as a naval base—and one need not delve far into the realm of logic to reach a reason. Japan has nothing to fear from Tsingtao now. Any so-called "menace" of another foreign power was removed when Tsingtao fell.

From Northern Saghalien to Shanghai, the Asiatic coast line bordering on the Pacific is dominated by Japan. Vladivostok, Dalny, Chemulpo, Port Arthur, Antung and Tsingtao—these are the Japanese economic strongholds which are connected by subsidised rail and steamship lines that combine to make the mere reiteration of an "Open Door" policy an empty agglomeration of meaningless words serving only to give Japan's merchants and government further opportunity to snicker at worldly-wise diplomats who sleep even when the door slams.

TSINGTAO IS KEY

If the voice of Siberia is to be heard at the Conference Table on November 11, Russians will protest against the injustice of the effective blockade of Vladivostok against merchandise other than that handled by Japanese. The voices from Chemulpo, Dairen, Port Arthur and Antung have long been stilled. But China can plead for Tsingtao.

Tsingtao is the key to more than the untold wealth of Shantung. Official Japanese announcements have hopefully pictured the port as the outlet for not only the products of Shantung but also for the shipments from Shansi, Shensi, Kansu and even far Szechuen, dreaming that extensions of the Shantung Railway will bring the wealth of China to this little sea-coast city built so well by the Germans and occupied so efficiently by Japan for the Japanese.

The Island of Yap, reduction of armaments, and perhaps even the Twenty-One Demands will be tossed aside for the moment when the story of Tsingtao and Shantung is told and if it is related correctly and courageously, not only China but foreign powers now looking askance at Tsingtao will be enabled to co-operate in the development of China's wonderful Northeast.

UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Today Tsingtao and the leased territory are under martial law. The rail line from Tsingtao to Tsinanfu, which up to Japan's occupancy never saw a German soldier in uniform, is now patrolled by troops of the Imperial Japanese Army with headquarters at Fangtsze, four and a half hours by train from Tsingtao, and barracks at Kaomi, Fangtsze, Changtien, Fuchi and Tsinan. Tsinan is nearly 400 kilometers from Tsingtao.

The military occupancy of the leased territory and the railway has been efficient and complete and Japan's excuse for planting her soldiers all along the line is that "China will not negotiate directly with us so that the Railway Guard may be withdrawn." When private German shareholders owned and managed the Shantung Railway the line was guarded by Chinese troops and German officers were not allowed to leave the Tsingtao District in uniform. Today the uniform of Japanese officers and men is almost part of the landscape.

Japanese officials in Tsingtao insist that the door is still wide open and both the Military Governor and the Civil Governor insisted that any series of articles written on conditions in Shantung should include an invitation to foreign business men to invest money and establish branch houses at Tsingtao.

PRAISE FOR HIGH OFFICIALS

Dr. Akiyama, the Civil Governor and probably the most popular Japanese resident among the foreigners at Tsingtao, time and again during an interview told me that charges of discrimination against European and American business men are untrue. "We have been bothered by silly acts of unintelligent subordinate officials but every complaint that reaches this office receives prompt attention," he said.

British, American and German business men have nothing but praise for the Civil Governor and the men that are closest to him. They do not charge discrimination. One Briton even went so far as to say that the Shantung Railway's allotment of freight cars is the most perfect in China for there is no squeeze, no auctioning of cars, and everyone has an equal chance.

But there is no need for Japanese Government officials to discriminate against European and American business men. In the seven years since German interests were ousted the Japanese population of Tsingtao and the Shantung Railway Zone has increased from 46 in 1914 to 27,858 in June of 1921. Since taking over the German rights, Japanese have invested nearly Yen 110,000,000 and have secured practically every desirable business site.

Incidentally the June census showed 442 "foreigners," the term in Tsingtao not applying to Japanese, and this figure includes women and children.

"FOREIGN" FIRMS FEW

Truly Japan has "occupied" Tsingtao and the Railway Zone. Five British firms, three of consequence, and five American firms, one of which may be said to be important in the business world of Tsingtao, represent the Anglo-Saxon commercial interests. Two of these American firms are represented respectively by one Japanese and one Chinese.

Japan has gone about its program of economic occupation with the utmost effectiveness. Her nationals control the trade and the methods by which trade must be carried on. Japanese methods are absolute. Western advice has not been asked in the government of a city built along Western lines—and it may be said without question that as administrators of a city planned and built for Westerners, the Japanese have failed. The water supply is inadequate, the electric current poor, the streets are not kept up as well as they were by the Germans, the postal service is a sore point for Japanese as well as Westerners, and it is a literal feat for a resident to secure telephone connection.

The ever-present Japanese explanation proclaims that all these things will be remedied in this unique combination of Hamburg and Osaka. But in seven years they have not been remedied and all this time Japan has effectively and consistently carried out the well-laid program of economically annexing Tsingtao and the area along the railway.

CHINA HAS A CASE

China has a case for the Disarmament Conference. China has refused to negotiate directly on Shantung and the Shantung Railway. Memories of the Twenty-One Demands, the Arms Alliance, Japan's special rights in Manchuria and Mongolia and a few other high lights in the program of aggression launched when the world was aflame and China was at the mercy of her over-ambitious neighbor prompt China's diplomats to hesitate at direct negotiation and to rely on the reaffirmation of the ideals which sent millions of Americans across the seas to fight for these ideals. And China believes that the date selected by President Harding, November 11, is a day for the revivification of such principles.

-:- The Step-Mother -:-

BY PAUL GINISTY

(Translated by William L. McPherson)

"Monsieur," said the servant, "there is a caller outside who insists that you will be glad to see him at once."

"At this hour?" exclaimed M. Merault who, in his dressing gown, was taking early breakfast. "What is his name?"

"He wouldn't tell me. He says it isn't necessary."

M. Merault was astonished. Then, as he thought the matter over, he became anxious. He looked at his wife, who was sitting opposite him. Mme. Merault knew what was in his mind. She also seemed worried.

"Mon Dieu!" she murmured. "If it should be your son!"

"Without warning us! That would be annoying!"

The door opened. A young man appeared, tall and robust. He rushed into M. Merault's arms and they embraced each other affectionately.

"I was so impatient to see you. Think of it! After three years in Africa!"

"Georges! My dear boy! What a surprise!"

"Was I wrong to surprise you? My return to France was very sudden and unexpected. I'll tell you about that later. But kiss me again, dear old dad, as you used to do when I was a child. Do you find me changed very much? One might think that my homecoming has upset you."

"Can you imagine that I am not perfectly happy?" said M. Merault trying to repress his uneasiness.

Georges seemed then for the first time to notice that his father wasn't alone. The young woman who was sitting at the breakfast table, not having had an opportunity to disappear, had tried to keep herself in the background as much as possible.

Georges bowed to her.

"Present me to madame, won't you?" he said to his father.

M. Merault much perturbed, struggling between the natural manifestation of his parental feeling and a very serious preoccupation, muttered some almost unintelligible words, and made a gesture toward his companion. Then he changed the conversation suddenly, starting a rapid-fire of questions:

"Were you well all the time? You hadn't any fever? Did you succeed in your mission? Did you have many adventures? Did you get along nicely with your colleagues?"

"Oh!" said Georges, "travelers are wonderful story tellers. I shall have much to talk about. I saw many wonderful things on the banks of the Ogogue, and I'll tell you about some negro kings who were friends of mine. But just now let me enjoy the sensation of being home again. I have been an explorer too long. I want to become a Parisian again. I still have my room here with you, haven't I?"

"Certainly."

"Then I'll take my things up and get settled."

He went away, leaving M. Merault—and Mme. Merault, too—in a state of agitation.

"It's a shame," said the former. "I alone am to blame. How can you pardon me, my dear, for putting you in so painful a position?"

"But I am as much to blame as you are. Didn't I contribute, by my fear of your son, to preventing you from writing him the truth?"

One might have judged from this conversation that they had been keeping a different kind of a secret. But they were perfectly respectable people, driven to dissimulation only by the delicacy of their scruples. They had no reason to blush for what they had done. In Georges' absence M. Merault, a widower for many years, had married again and hadn't dared to announce the marriage.

How many letters, containing minute explanations, had he written! Not being satisfied with them, he had never mailed them.

Was it because, at such a distance, he couldn't make Georges understand that what appeared to be a folly on his part was, in fact, a rare piece of good fortune, a stroke of wisdom? His wife was hardly thirty years old, while he, although he didn't look it, was approaching sixty. Yet, as serious as she was charming, she was most sincerely attached to him.

Would Georges, naturally skeptical, have faith in this happy reality, this genuine union which had been possible in spite of the difference in their ages? Would he credit M. Merault's praises of his second wife? Wouldn't he suspect her of mercenary motives? Wouldn't he blame his father? Above all, wouldn't his sense of loyalty be affronted?

The difficulty of convincing the young man had deterred M. Merault. He put off telling him, moved by his affection for this grown-up boy, of whom he was so proud and whose adverse judgment he shrank from. Mme. Merault, modest, sensitive and a little timid, also feared Georges' opinion, imagining the self-interested role which he might be led to attribute to her.

"A conversation will be more satisfactory than a letter," M. Merault used to say. "When my son sees you, so simple, so good, so gracious, he will be sure to say I was right."

Now the time for the conversation had come and it still terrified M. Merault, chilling his joy at possessing Georges again after so long a separation. If the explanation should cause any coldness between them, he felt that he would be perfectly miserable. But how could he now brusquely blurt out the truth?

He procrastinated again, seeking each day a pretext for further delay. When Georges knew the young woman better, he argued, and had had a chance to realise her charm, he would be more certain to approve of the marriage!

Mme. Merault therefore was to pass provisionally as a sort of housekeeper, treated with the special consideration which she deserved. But she was so little at ease in Georges' company that she betrayed her fears, as if she were conscious of some hidden guilt. Nevertheless, Georges took pleasure in talking with her, showed her a thousand little attentions and a sympathy which became more and more pronounced.

"Alas!" thought M. Merault, "between my son's affection and my wife's I ought to be the happiest of men. But how uncertain is this happiness, which may be dashed by a single word."

He decided to conquer his irresolution and to provoke the indispensable disclosure. But he always drew back when he was on the point of speaking.

So he felt completely taken aback when Georges, after a week or two, announced that he wished to have a serious interview.

"My dear father," said the son, "I am one of those who, believing in first inspirations, make my decisions quickly. I want to confess that I am much in love with your housekeeper, and I ask your permission to marry her."

"Marry her! You!" cried M. Merault. "What do you mean?"

He almost choked.

"My poor boy," he began again, with an effort, "that is impossible. Mon Dieu! I never expected this! Because, I must tell you"——

"That she is already Mme. Merault," said Georges, with a hearty laugh. "Ah! Sly papa, you had no confidence in me. But I knew, and to punish you I amused myself grilling you with my questions. You went away from Paris to get married. But a little country newspaper, which one of my friends in Africa received one day, told me about your change of status. And I promised myself, since you supposed that I wouldn't approve, to play this little comedy of ignorance. I determined to make you repent your silence. And I have paid you off, for you were getting nicely tangled up. This ought to teach you not to doubt me again. But I am neither jealous nor offended. I know well that I have always my place in your heart; and I find my little step-mother as charming as she is worthy of all my respect."

Premium Bonds Of The Sin Hua Savings Bank

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Dear Sir.—A notice is appearing in your esteemed paper that the above mentioned bonds are to be exchanged for 5th. Year Internal Loan Bonds before September 30 at specified places.

Now, how about bondholders who do not wish to take the loan bonds in exchange? Will they forfeit their deposits altogether?

It is necessary to go into the history of these bonds which were issued by the Sin Hua Savings Bank on behalf of the Chinese Government in 1915. The undertaking was that deposits should be refunded in three years, and the repayment of principal (as well as prizes) was guaranteed by the Chinese Government. After three years no repayment took place; instead, the Chinese Government prolonged the period for redemption, rather a peculiar action on the part of a debtor without the sanction of the creditors, i.e. the bondholders.

Now the time for repayment has again arrived, and the Sin Hua Bank tries to palm off on the bondholders, instead of hard dollars, loan bonds, the market value of which is at 50% below par. This seems an easy way of paying off debts. Try it. Just get some depreciated bonds and say: "Well, you must either take the bonds or else you'll get nothing at all. Now don't think."

On the other hand, if the Chinese Government did not guarantee the repayment of the Sin Hua bonds, then the Sin Hua Bank sold the bonds under false pretences, and is liable to be prosecuted for fraud, and the Chinese Government ought to have done so long ago.

Let the Chinese Government state that it does guarantee the repayment of the Sin Hua Bonds, not sometime in the dim future, but now, when the payment is due. As a matter of fact the bonds were already mature three years ago.

I may further mention, that I have actually applied for repayment of deposit amount, but the repayment has been refused. I was asked to leave the deposit receipt, and was told that after five months I would be given 5th Year Internal Loan Bonds, one dollar for every dollar deposited.

Besides myself, many bondholders are interested in this matter, and I shall be thankful, if you will find space in your valued paper to publish the above which is of public interest. Enclosing my card, I am, dear Sir, Yours truly,

INTERESTED.

Australian Gold For U. S.

Practically all recent sales of Australian gold have been effected with the United States of America. During the twenty-two months since the foundation of the Gold Producers' Association Ltd. 7,824,854 sovereigns, or 2,009,597 standard ozs. have been disposed of, realising a net distributed premium of £2,390,-097. This was equal to £1.3.9 per standard ounce, or 6/1.3d per sovereign sold.

In submitting that information to the annual meeting of the Association at Melbourne, Victoria (April 1921) Mr. E. C. Dyason, Chairman, referred to the exchange situation, and urged a free market for exchanges. The great alteration in the currency relation, of which the present London remittance deadlock was a symptom, had a very important bearing on Australian economic welfare. There were now two currencies subject to two separate controls, where formerly there was one. In these circumstances any attempt to peg the rate of exchange must be doubtful remedy.

"COMMANDER" Stories

A barrister being elevated to the bench, a solicitor who had sent him the day before a brief with a large fee, called upon him and suggested that, as his client was not a rich man, the cheque might be returned.

"I should be very glad," said the newly appointed judge "to do as you suggest, and quite agree that morally you are right, but in justice to my profession and to avoid establishing a precedent I am obliged to decline.

"Ah, my lord," said the solicitor, "we feared you might find yourself in this difficulty, and, to save you any embarrassment, we have stopped the cheque."

Household Hints

To soften a paint brush on which paint has been allowed to dry, heat some vinegar to boiling point, and allow the brush to simmer in it for a few minutes. Then wash well in strong soapsuds and the brush will be like new.

* * *

Turpentine is useful for removing paint stains. Apply the turpentine with a piece of rag, and if the stain is obstinate use a little ammonia as well.

* * *

If Brussels rug persists in rolling up at the edges, turn it over and apply a good coat of glue. Let it dry before turning, and there will not be any more trouble.

* * *

Chopped suet is very useful for replacing eggs in milk puddings. Simply sprinkle a little on the top and the pudding will be rich and creamy.

* * *

For polishing brass there is no more reliable method than to use the old-fashioned whiting wet with household ammonia, which is less apt to scratch than many other preparations.

Hats Made At Home

BY RITA STUYVESANT

Have you seen the untrimmed hats and frames offered in the millinery shops? Smart hats may be made from such material. Those big, floppy straws that come in many colors may be converted into the loveliest creations and the shapes of buckram are foundations for attractive models.

For general wear why not purchase a large black basket straw hat for about a dollar, and trim it at home. Bind the edge with white organdy cut on the bias; around the crown place flowers of white organdy, and when the hat is lined you will be surprised at its attractiveness.

Organdy flowers and buds grace some of the loveliest hats of the Summer season and are simple to make. All shades and bits of material may be utilised, and the pastel flowers bunched artistically. To make them more realistic you can use flower stamens and make the organdy blossoms on a wire stem. Cut bias strips and double the material before you begin to twirl them into flowers. The stems may be covered in green, if you plan to have them show.

Worsted is used extensively for smart sport hats. Large straw hats are sometimes overcast on the edges with contrasting wool, and adorned with flowers of the wool scattered over the crown. Bright red wool on white or beige straw is striking, and there are numerous other color schemes.

Gingham hats are still in vogue, although taking different forms, this season, favoring the broad brim at the side and soft crown. If you purchase an extra yard of gingham when planning your frock you may have a hat to match. The shapes are so simple to cover, and one needs only add a huge organdy sash or a flat grosgrain ribbon bow for trimming. These gingham hats lend distinction to a white linen or ratine frock.

Organdy hats are well liked for warm days; their success depends first on a becoming frame, and then on a flattering color. Do not be timid about buying an untrimmed hat; the decoration is so simple that one may have several hats for the cost of a ready-to-wear.

TEXACO MOTOR OILS

—SAVE { POWER THE ENGINE EXPENSE

There are four grades of Texaco Motor Oil; light, medium, heavy and extra heavy—a grade to suit your every requirement, no matter what kind of car you drive.

Texaco Motor Oil assures maximum power because it holds the "seal" between piston rings and cylinder walls. That is where fuel leakage occurs when the lubricant does not possess body to function properly.

Texaco Motor Oils are composed of the best American Crudes, refined according to most scientific methods, and each tin is tested before it leaves the refinery. Use of it affords free lubrication to all moving parts of the motor, more power, high compression, and less carbon. The little carbon which does remain is never hard and flinty, but soft and fluffy like soot.

Texaco Motor Oil is a quality product, each drop is the same—maximum lubrication value, minimum waste.

"THE BRAND"

The story is one of great power and appeal. It is a drama from the first scene.

Cotton

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company state as follows in their cotton market report of today:

China Cotton:—Although our market during the past week evinced but little activity prices on the local staple continued firm with a rising tendency, being stimulated by the unfavorable weather conditions for the plant in its present maturing process and by the strength prevailing both in Mid-Americans and Indians.

The continued absence of commitments by the local mills and their general indifference to the local product may engender a more or less reactionary phase in the local market, but to evolve any such situation more seasonable weather conditions will have to set in, as otherwise the present trend in prices will be maintained as a natural course of events having also in view the monetarial accommodation that is being proffered from various sources to both producers and their middlemen. Tone of the market, firm.
